

PelliGroup Announces LexPelli - Expanded Records Retention Research

A cost effective solution for the development and management of records retention schedules.

West Point, VA (PRWEB) October 27, 2010 -- PelliGroup today announced the release of LexPelli Records Retention Schedule Services that provides expanded records retention schedule development and legal research capabilities.

PelliGroup's extensive experience in providing consulting services to Fortune 500 and other global and industry leading clients with complex records management requirements has led to the systematic accumulation of over 15,000 domestic and international legal citations and ethics opinions. To better manage and improve on the collection and maintenance of this information PelliGroup has developed LexPelli - the most effective software application for the development and management of records retention schedules. "Our new software tool, LexPelli, is the cornerstone of our records retention schedule development and maintenance services," says John Montaña, PelliGroup's Vice-President and General Counsel, "and is what gives us the ability to create a master dataset and tailor a retention schedule to meet the needs of any organization, large or small, local or global. We can create a schedule for a global organization that operates in over 100 countries or we can configure it for a region, country or business unit across borders. On top of all that, we can address privacy issues, location issues and media requirements."

By implementing LexPelli, PelliGroup has taken a giant step forward in helping clients develop and manage their records retention schedules for the long term. "With LexPelli we are able to offer clients cost effective long term records retention schedule maintenance and update services," says George Cunningham, President and CEO of PelliGroup. "It's all about quality and value for the client. This broadens our schedule development services and allows us to deepen our research capabilities, the benefits of which are passed on to our clients."

About PelliGroup, Inc.

PelliGroup is an independent records and information management consulting firm providing records management consulting and expert witness testimony to and for Fortune 500, and other global and local businesses with complex records management needs. PelliGroup's team of records management consultants and lawyers combined with LexPelli - the most effective software application for the development and management of records retention schedules - provide unbiased advice and guidance, and enable the implementation of legally defensible records management strategies. To find out more please visit www.pelligroup.com.

###

Contact Information

George C. Cunningham

PelliGroup Inc.

<http://www.PelliGroup.com>

804.843.2882

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.